Dear Parent/Guardian

Re: Student Access to School First Thing

Now that we are in our new building and in one place, as opposed to scattered between multiple buildings, I am going to trial allowing students who arrive early to school immediate access to the school. Currently they are required to wait in Reception until around 7.50am. I am aware that this has caused some frustration to older students in particular who want to come in and study.

In doing so, I emphasise that all students arriving early will of course be required to fully meet all expectations of the school's Behaviour Policy. Any student behaving in a silly or dangerous manner would have the privilege immediately rescinded.

I do also want to emphasise that the period between 7.30am – c.7.50am is one where many staff arrive, but staff presence may not be as high as it is from around 8.00am. As always, in offering early access to the site, I cannot guarantee the same levels of staff availability and supervision that there are during the day. Should you have any reservations about that, your child can of course and as currently, wait in Reception until slightly later in the morning.

Kind regards
